“I am a Daughter of Adventure”- Margaret Brown

Travel was one of Margaret Brown’s passions in life. She made many trips across the United States and visited 13 counties including Egypt, India, Japan and France. For Margaret Brown, a simple trip from Denver to Chicago meant 25 hours aboard a train. Continuing on to New York where a she could catch a ship to Europe was another 20 hours. Traveling across the Atlantic Ocean could take up to two weeks. Paris was one of Margaret’s favorite destinations, but she loved traveling to make a study of people. To help her with this goal, she learned 5 languages- Spanish, French, German, Italian, and Russian.

What is your favorite or dream travel destination?

Make a travel poster to explore that place!

1. Research your destination.
2. Use the brochure template to share:
   - Where you would like to go?
   - How you will get there?
   - What you would like to do while there?
   - Why you want to go?
3. Draw pictures of your destination!

Share your brochure on Facebook or email to education@mollybrown.org and you could be featured in a special online exhibit!

Brown Family Photo Courtesy of Denver Public Library